AWARDS 2023

Exceptional and inspiring teacher

Sponsored by

School Teacher of the Year

"The reaction from my pupils was priceless"

pupils was priceless - they looked as confused as I must have done when the T&A reporters suddenly appeared in our classroom and explained why they were there. To be honest, it's all a bit of a blur and I will need to re-watch the video to remember what was actually said. I just remember thinking, 'I wish I'd washed and straightened my hair for this!'

"The award is beautiful and will take pride of place in my classroom. I've received lots of lovely comments from colleagues and pupils - both current ones and some who I worked with or taught decades ago. All my family and friends have been really thrilled for me and many are enjoying teasing me about now being a local celebrity." In making the nomination head teacher Andrea Grist said: "Beth is an exceptional teacher, who is one of the most enthusiastic and inspirational educators that I have ever had the pleasure to meet, but the reason that she deserves this award is for the way in which she has transformed and led Reading at Peel Park Primary School."

Beth Pollard was speechless when she won the Primary Teacher of the Year
